

Trainee Product Specialists (Air Conditioning)

(Nationwide)

Would you like to join a forward thinking company that invests in people and their development?

Trading since 1945, HRP is one of the longest established refrigeration and air conditioning wholesalers in the UK.

HRP has a strong pre and after sales support for an impressive portfolio of products. All products are available locally from a national network of 14 branches.

We are looking for ambitious Trainee Product Specialists to join our Air Conditioning team. This is a great opportunity to join a dynamic and forward thinking business.

Your main role will be to provide technical sales support to internal and external customers, to specify and select equipment and issue quotations.

You will be willing to undertake the company's own in-house training programme in air conditioning, in particular to gain a good knowledge of split and VRF systems and controls, working towards becoming a Product Specialist.

We are looking for ambitious and self-motivated individuals, with a common sense approach, who are able to work on their own but also as part of a team. You will have a passion for high standards, with excellent communication skills.

Previous experience is not essential, as training will be provided.

This is an excellent opportunity for somebody with good customer service skills who wishes to progress into a more technically based role.

You should be computer literate and a driving licence is essential.

A competitive salary and benefits package is offered.

Please apply by e-mail enclosing your current CV and salary expectations to:

recruitment@beijerref.co.uk
Tel. 01372 389221

Refrigeration &
Air Conditioning Supplier
Better by degrees^o

www.hrponline.co.uk